The chief failing-off was in the items under the head of sales. There were the following reductions among others:—Auction sales, £157,500; selections after auction, £163,833; deposits on conditional purchases, £7,2450. The interest from land conditionally purchased was £6151, against £12,656. There was a reduction of £1886 in the amount of rent received from runs, and of £770 in the proceds of auriferous leases. Other items showed very little change. The total receipts for services rendered amounted to £617,791, showing a substantial increase of £85,728. £617,941, showing a substantial increase of £88,728. Of this increase the railway returned £72,615, the receipts being £502,128. The Post Office yielded £103,543, an increase of £20,303. The Public school fees (ell off from £10,211 to £5031; other items exfees fell off from £10,211 to £3031; other items exhibiting no very marked change unless it be that the Mint receipts, amounting to £1417, were less by £081. General miscallaneous receipts were £62,022, against £43,473 in the corresponding quarter of 1882. The Trust funds receipts amounted to £790,116, an increase of £216,502. Looking at the year's revenue we find that taxation yielded£1,875,362, against £1,000,383 in the previous year: the Customs figures showing scarcely any change for the two periods. The land revenue was £1,083,014, against £2,001,184; receipts for services rendered, £2,575,5389, against £2,243,308; and miscellaneous receipts, £2,04,086, against and miscellaneous receipts, £256,086, against £138,183. The total year's revenue proper was £6,702,862, compared with £7,255,254, a decrease of £552,451. The quarier's expenditure amounted to £1,661,860. At the close of the quarter there was an overdraft of £922,308, on the Sydney was the Basic of New South Wales and account, at the Bank of New South Wiles, and one of £397,633 on the London account, without taking into consideration any portion of the proceeds of the late loan of £3,0 0,000, but against this there were special deposits in the bank to the amount of £864,198, leaving a cash debit balance of £435,831.

Securities were held to the value of £628,382, leaving a net credit balance of £102,551.

The revenue tables appearing elsewhere show that there has been a considerable reduction in the quarter's receipts. The most uneatisfactory feature is that there has been so marked a falling-off in the amount derived from taxation. These who have been engaged in commercial pursuits will not be surprised that that is the outcome of the quarter's business, for B. R. HARM's and C.C.-M. In the import markets the business of the day was far from active, and it cannot be said, so far, that the last quarter of the year has opened with any more animation than characterised the one that has passed. A fair trade was done in breadstuffs at the following quotations:—Adelaids town brands, £12 to £12 5s.; country, £11 to £11 10s.; New South Wales, £10 15s. to £11 10s.; Victorian, £10 10s. to £11 5s. In iquors we note asles of Hennessy's brandy at 4ts. for three star, and at 35s. 6d. for single star; geneva, large contents, quoted at 12s.; a large line changed hands at a lower figure; Lowndee' rum a shade firmer, though 3s. 11d. is still quoted. SIMMARY OF NEWS, Vol. 1880, 1981. If it is a wrong thing for strong men to work more than eight hours a day, it cannot be a right one for delicate girls to work twelve or fourteen hours. Artisans and their families should also remember that if it is desirable to close carpenters' and blacksmiths' shops at five, it can hardly be a desirable thing to keep drapers and grocers shops open till eight or ten. What is cruel to working men in one sphere must be cruel to such men in another. In time no doubt the golden rule of If the crowd that met at Parramatta on eight hours for work, eight for rest, and eight for recreation will be the general one. and it will be all the better if that time is reached with the least possible interference with individual liberty and without the interwith vention of l'arliament.

The United States Bureau of Education has with the Legislature. What has been and is still asked on behalf of the class issued a pamphlet on the co-education of the that kept high heliday is not simply that sexes. But when the question is fairly looked at, it is seen that more than a little can be said in favour of a change, tion of the law. This, it need hardly be however much may be said against it, said, is a very different affair from whether it is desirable to make eight hours the length of a working day or not. The extraordinarily high prices realised for fish at the Eastern Market on Monday will have struck most people with surprise. Two causes have been assigned—the Jewish New Year festival and the rough weather of the past week. If inquiry were instituted it would probably be found that the chief reason for the scarcity which sent up the prices is to be found in the fact that our the prices is to be found in the insignificant and primitive a scale. We have more than once pointed out how successful some of our fishermen have been, in a pecuniary sense, and how much success awaits others who will engage in the enterprise. Fish are obtainable off the coast, netimes in some of our harbours, in almost deed sometimes in some of our harbours, in almost fabulous quantities. And yet the supply is so uncer-tain, and at times so scanty, that people have been found willing (as was the case on Monday) to give 12s, each for schnapper, 4s. 5d. each for bream, and 52s, for a basket of garfish. These prices were given for fish that ought to have been profitably disposed of for as many pence as they realised shillings. The Jewish holiday increased the demand no doubt; but the supply was small. demand, no doubt; but the supply was small. Nor can the rough weather be held answerable, to any extent, for the condition of the market, for it was not by any means unusually tempestuous.
With proper appliances fish could be kept at sea, as they are kept on the British coasts, for days without deterioration. Occasionally we hear of quantities going bad before they reach this port, simply because the catchers have not provided themselves with ordinary appliances for keeping the fish in good condition, even for a day. If some of shose old salts who trawl and not on the British ahose old salts who trawl and not on the British roasts, and concerning whose vocation and the methods of pursuing it our London correspondent has of late been giving us some graphic sketches, were to learn of our teeming fishing-grounds, our pacific waters, and the high prices realised for fish in the Sydney market, they would probably cry "Up lines," and shift themselves and their smacks and other craft to the antipodes. Their advent in these waters would be welcomed, and they would find a wide field for their enterprise. For not only has Sydney to be supplied, the people in country towns are anxious to become purtowns are anxious to become pur-nall quantities of fish are obtainable in but a few of the rivers of the colony, and from those rivers the supply is insufficient to satisfy local requirements. There is therefore an almost boundless field for enterprise in the way of descloring out fisher controllers. The adjourned examination in the setate of I waddington, which was down upon the list for

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE greatest excitement still prevails at Madrid, in consequence of the insuit offered to King Alfonso by a mob of Parisians, as he was on his way to the residence pointed out—and that is the best solution of the difficulty—there is no need to place children any nearer than educational work demands, and that would leave a line of separation sufficiently marked between boys and girls. The Premier, who is usually tolerably actute, fairly destroyed the Ministerial case, by declaring that the Ministry could not propose to reduce duties until they knew what sum would be voted for public works, as the reductions must depend on the available revenue. was similar to that passed at the Sydney meeting. He considered that the liberty of the press had been grossly interfered with. He believed that the so-called "Orphans' Home" had been a gross attement to fleece the public. No one who had looked into the matter properly could fail to sympathise with the Sydney Moranon Herald, which, however, had to suffer for speaking the truth. It now became the duty of the people, and of the Legislature also to reduce this injustice. and of the Legislature also, to redress this injustice. He maintained that the duty of the press was to comment farrly upon any social or benevokent schemes that might be put before the public; but white it was allowed this privilege, it should be mattered. t should be restrained from becoming the vehicle of currility. He warmly approved of the remarks of the Attorney-General upon the question of the press in this colony, and was utterly opposed to the judgment of Sir Martin in the case against the Messrs. Fairfax for ontempt of Court. (Applause.)

Alderman Militon seconded the resolution. He thought hat an infringement of the liberty of the press was that an infringement upon the freedom of the press was also an infringement upon the freedom of the peeple and of justice. The article in the Sydney Morning Herald was ably written, and it was clear that in spite of all opposition it had had the desired effect. It had swamped the so-called "Artisans" Home," and prevented Mrs. Anderson from stumping the centry in a wrong cause. The law of the land, as laid down by the Saprema Cents, appeared to be greatly tyrannical in this case. He concluded by asserting that such laws as could sanction the infliction of a fine or imprisonment meen the proprietives of the Saprem Morning. imprisonment upon the proprietors of the Sydney Morning was also exactly the same as that adopted at the §gdney meeting. He had a great contempt for what was called "Jingoism." (Applause.) He liked fair play in everything—in law as well as everything else. He believed that a jury should decide in all allered contempt of Court cases; nd the result should not be left to the decision of one man If trial by jury of 12 was not perfect, it was better than a trial by one, who was judge and jury too. (Applause.) As for the libel law it, was most difficult to make it out. for the libel law it, was most difficult to make it out. Neither the Judges nor the lawyers knew how to define it. In many lostances they disagreed, and were always disagreeing. He maintained that if a man sourrifously abused another he should be punished, but that if a person spoke the truth in the interests of justice it should not be treated as a libel. He hoped that the Legislature would bring in a short but comprehensive measure dealing with libet and contempt of Court—one that overybody could understand. (Applause.)

Mr. J. Rhay briefly seconded, and Mr. Willis supported the resolution.

Mr. J. M'Kean moved the fourth resolution. He believed that all these resolutions were greatly needed. He upheld the conduct of the Bulleton in a former case, and of the Sydney Morning Herald in the present instance. Both papers, he thought, had done a great deal of good by their exposure of abuses, and by publishing facts as they stood. He indignantly protested against the practice in dealing with contempt of Court cases, and donied the right of one man to hold the position of prosecutor, Judge, and jury in himself. (Applause.) He referred to the Cox case as an lastance of the weakness of the law, and to other cases. Alderman Dours seconded the resolution, which also was surried without dissent.

If he will kindly give the plan his careful attention he cannot fail to observe that Belmore and Canterbury will be more benefited by the above route than by the other or St. Peters route, one being on selvated land, the latter, though level all the way, awampy, requiring a 20th symbally ment throughout, and this line would cost about three times as much as the former.

"Non-philanthropist" then proceeds to inform us grantitously that there are only a few settlers on the proposed route. If he will make himself more acquainted with the number of residents I think he will be astonished at the number of residents I think he will be astonished at the sumit. Moreover, he has evidently forgotien that there are a large number of land subdivisions and allotments in the district owned by thousands of persons who are only waiting for a sallway, lits himself, and cannot afford to drive long distances to a station. I would ask him which fis the sooner likely to pay for a ruleway—a multitude of residents on the above-mentioned subdivisions, or a few farmers on the George's River side, on land which can never be used for anything but agriculture, owing to continual floods?

AMUSEMENTS,

MISS PEDLEY'S CONCERT.

Miss Pedley's benefit concert, given at the Protestant Hall last night, attracted one of the largest and most fashionable audiences which have ever ascembled there, the Hall last night, attracted one of the largest and most stabilionable audiences which have ever assembled there, the successful result being due partly to the kindly feeling aroused by this lady's ever willing service in any obaritable cause, partly by her ment as a musician, and in some degree by her personal popularity. Miss Pedley sang "Che favo senza Euridica," from Gluck's "Orfeo," and "That Day," a new bailed by Tosti, and, in response to an imperative call for the latter number, gave with arch expression a little bailed called "I wo's company, three is none," the sentiment of which is well expressed by its ritie. But as a violinist she is heard to far more advantage than as a vocalist, and her solos—Noronha's "Elegia" and Ernat's "Pensée fugitive"—were worth all her songs. Her bowing was retined and powerful, and her stopping excellent; and the prolonged round of applause which followed the performance was well carned. Miss Woolley, who played the pisanoforte accompaniment, supported the violinist very artistically, and the trio given by the two ladies and Herr Hermann (violoncello)—Hummel's "Andante con Variazioni, e Rondo alla Turoa"—went with good effect. The feature of the concert was Herr Max Vogrich's pisanoforte solo, Lisat's "Fantasie Hongroise," which was played with such flery vigeur of touch, delicate and sympathetic expression, and wooderful facility of manipulation, that the audience histoned to it with rapt attention, and at its close burst into applause, which was prolonged until Herr Vogrich, after bowing his acknowledgments twice, took his sent again at the pianoforte. He then played his own clever "Staccato Caprice." Tomorow night he will give she last concert of the present series, and if all those who were instrumental in recalling him last night were sincer in the admiration of his ability they then expressed, he will have a good house on the occasion. Mrs. Allan Fisher, a meazo-oppeano singer, whose fine vuice has evidently been well trained, and who sings with very great tasts, gave

UNIVERSITY EVENING LECTURES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—My proposel had only reference to the B.A. course, being a course of the second of the second of the suppose that men who have already chosen their cocupation, and are earning their bread, desired to be scientific specialists. If there are any such, the Technical College specialists. If there are any such, the Technical College specialists. If there are any such, the Technical College specialists. If there are such that he are the subjects, a few books and maps, and the proper locture rooms (but these will probably be found us by the Government) cannot assume to one fourth of the sum you mention. I should advise that the lecturers be handously paid—partly out of islow-feeling, because I am so myself, partly to secure first-rate near; but still more, because the terms and vacations must not be in the same proportion as with us. Why not I Because you cannot expect the students to attend more than the sum of the same you cannot expect the students to attend more than the sum of the same was then sum that is too great a tax upon men in certain occupations. It therefore stands to reason that the most humans and sensible plan is to have, saw, three hours of study every evening except Saturdeys and Sundays, including the lecture hour; and, to make up for the fewness of the hours, let the torus be as long as those of a grammar school. If greatlemen who are great believers in the sciences as a part of education with that scientific lecturers bould be provided, and a scientific occurrence which is a scientific expense which are necessarily great, went was there is no squandering, such as necessarily great, went was there is no squandering, such as necessarily great, went was the end of the strength of the second of the

THE FRENCH IN TONQUIN.

By the steamer Tannadice, which arrived in Melbourne on the 28th ultime, Chinese papers have been received, from which the following intelligence from Tonquin le taken:—

"HANOI, August 12.

"On the 30th July a council of war was held in Haiphong by the heads of the civil, military, and naval departments now representing the French Government in Tonquin for the purpose of deciding on the future course of action advisable in the present position of affairs in the province. General Bouct, the commander-in-chief of the military forces, arrived from Hanoi on the 28th to meet the newly-appointed tiovernor or commissiance general, M. Harmand; and Rear-Admiral Courbet, in command of the auxiliary squadron recently despatched from Europe, came up to Haiphong from the anchorage at Halong Bay early on the morning of the 30th, to take part in the deliberations.

"The exact subjects under discussion, and the decisions arrived at by the joint authorities, have not been made public, but I have good authority for believing that Admirat Courbets's equadron will at mose proceed down the coast to the entrance of the Huà River and take possession of the forts erected there, with the intention of forcing the central diovernment at the capital to come to terms and accept a French occupation of the province of Tonquin, and administration of its Government. In the event of the Ananite Government refusing to accede to the terms proposed, it is very probable that that will be bombarded and captured by the French fleet. On the last instant M. Harmand, accompanied by the general, left Haiphong for Hanoi, the present headquarters of the army, and ancient capital of Tonquin, and after establishing a civil admiristration here under the direction of M. Honnal, as chief of the department, returned again on the 8th instant to Heiphong, which will probably be constituted, for the prevince. After the telegraph line now decided upon is laid between Saigon and Hanoi, it is very probable that the surface has been made by the irregular auxiliaries formed on the same system as in force at Sairon, the new corps being armed and officered by the French.

"The possession of Son-tai and Bachsish by the French will secure the tranquillity of a large and fruitful district, but the campaign will probably last until the Black Flags are entirely destroyed or driven over the border into China. A satisfactory and prompt settlement of the disputs with China would greatly facilitate the French in their operation, as little opposition would be offered by the Anamite Government or people when once assured that they could recept and irred or indirect assistance from China. It is boilered that the bands of Black Flags have already been greatly supplemented from the border, and if this source of reinforcement to the most formidable opponents the French have met in Tonquin remains open for long, the present force in the province will be quite inadequase to the task of settling and protecting the country.

"The new Governor inaugurated the new régime by the publication of a proclamation addressed to the mandarins, unerchants, and people of Tonquin, stating in somewhat grandifuquent language that, after using all ponceable means to induce the Government of Anam to observe the terms of its treaty with France in vain, it was time to enforce the respect claimed, but that the campaign now opened was directed solely against the bands of robbers and pirates who desolate the country, and that all those of the mandarins who governed their people justly and fairly will be left unfaisturbed—that the laws, customs, and religion of the people would be respected, and fairly and fairly will be left unfaisturbed—that the laws, customs, and religion of the people would be respected. The proclamation concludes with an appeal to the people to have confidence in Franca, who would not desert them, and assuring them that a period of prosperity equal to the best of the past would shortly return.

"The same journal has the following items in its issues of the 14th and 16th Augu Left again on the 13th for Touran Bay with 800 treeps on board and a corps of 180 cooles. Admiral Courbet has decided to remove with his squadron from Halong Bay to Touran Bay for two reasons, one being the difficulty of guarding in Halong Bay against mooturnal attacks and torpedoes. The other reason is that a march on Huck, the capital of Anam, has been officially amounced by the Governor of Tonquin, M. Harmand, and it is necessary for the first to be near this new centre of operations. The Alouette left Saigon on the 16th August for Touran, taking M. Palusin de Champsaux, Head of the Native Department in Cochin China, in represent the colony in the negotiations about to be opened with the New King Duc-Duc (progenmed Yoles-Duce). The civil Governor of Tonquin, M. Harmand, Admiral Courbet, and General Boute were also to proceed to Touran to fix the terms of as ultimatum which was to be sent to Hué prior to the opening of hestilities against the capital. The day of attack had been fixed, in case the mandarins should persuada the new king to be as obstinate in his resistance as his uncle and predecessor. There had been two condidates for the succession to the Anamite throne. One was the late king's brother, Van-Lang-Cong, twenty-ninth and least child of Thieu-Tri, born August, 1846; the other was the one chosen by the mandarina, and is the nephew of the late ting Tudeo, being the son of his fourth breather, Kton-Thoal-Cong, born in 1851, and named Duc-Duc.

THE NEW SOUTH WALES CRICKET ASSOCIATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—As an old cricketer, and one who occupied the position of a representative of one of the leading clubs in connection with the New South Wales Cricketing Association, I cannot but say that it is a matter for very much regret that a cause is alleged to exist for a reform to be brought that it cause is alleged to exist for a reform to be brought about in the management of the Association Cricket Ground. It appears to me, and I think it will appear to a very large portion of the criexeting community, that the decision of the president, in so far as the legal interpretation of the trust deed is concerned, gives the trustees absolute control over the ground, and whatever some of the members of the association may think of the arbitrarineses of the provisions of the deed, they cannot shut their eyes to the fact that the trustees are only exercising the powers conferred upon them. It should not be overlooked that at the time of the granting of the ground much dissult-faction was shown at the way in which cricketers were alleged to have been treated by the management of the Albert Ground Company; and, as far as I know, to voice was raised against the conditions of the reservation of the exclusive control of the Albert Ground by gentlemen who had always manifested the highest interest in cricketing affairs, until the augmentation of the clubs necessitated increases accommodation. We know then what followed. The Albert Ground Company resented an unwarrantable interference, and disposed of their interest in a manner quite unconçenial to the tastes of their association was sentially constituted body, and the contralling of their representation may be fairly regarded to be a proceeding calculated to seriously interfere with the progress of cricket in this colony.

may be fairly regarded to be a proceeding calculated to seriously interfere with the progress of cricket in this colony.

There may be some details in the management of the ground which require attending to somewhat differently to the way in which they have been attended to in the past; but who can for a moment think that the trustees have not been alive to the discharge of the duties they have voluntarily taken upon themselves to perform, when they compare the Association Ground with the old Civil and Military it superseded? The pressur ground is admitted to be one of the finest in the world, and that fact alone, I think, should be one of the strongest recommendations for a continued repeating of confidence in the trustees.

But supposing the regressmation so much covered by the association was practicable, what benefit would it gain it is was taken advantage of? Whatever pecuniary gain is experienced through the playing of cricket is laid out in the improvement of the ground, and both the cricketers and the patronising public rajoy the bounds of it. If, however, a diminution of the profits is accupit for the suricinustry of competing clubs and the improversament of the ground excheduar, then the desires of the association would be gratified at a cont which would lead it difficulties the character of which is only anticipated by a few. The comparison between cricket and achieties do not improve the situation, and if very serious unpleasantnesses are to be avoided and cricket alearnally advanced, it would be well for to stak the present differences, and work amicably together. I hope it will be so.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD. TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Mr. Christic accurate me, in his letter that appeared in your issue of yesterday, of inconsistency in the matter of the quantity of water required for a sheep. In the pamphlet "Floods and Droughts," to which Mr. Christic referse, I stated that two gallones a day per bead was ample for all purposes, leaduring washing, weaksouring, and all other ness to which water is applied in a getting up wool for marker, basides giving a liberal allowance for watering the sheep. In my letter to the Herald II stated that in a long dry time half a gallon a day would be sufficient. Mr. Christic appears to be unable to realise the difference between amplea ellowance and the minimum upon which sheep can exist during a drought. Considered from this standpoint the apparent discrepancy posited out by Mr. Christic wanishes.

the apparent discrepancy pointed out by Air. Caristic vanishes.

Again, Mr. Christic says that in writing my pamphlet "Floods and Droughts." I had not considered the effect of evaporation. On page 29 I find, "Looking at the published meteocological tables I find I am quite safe in taking the least possible rainfall for any year, over the whole of this arm (all the western alope of the Dividing Range, lying within the colony, that has an elevation of 1500 feet and upwards giving a catchment area on over 10,000 square miles), at 13 inches, one fourth of this pr 24 inches is, therefore, what may be reached on for storage, allowing for loss by exporation, for one-third of 13 inches, or 4 inches, while the sidesive amount or that which we should be able to actually make use of from the year-rose would be actually make use of from the year-rose would be able to actually make use of from the year-rose would be actually make use of from the year-rose would be one-
